Akron-Canton Airport

American Airlines

Nonstop to Charlotte, Chicago, Philadelphia, LaGuardia (NYC), Washington D.C.; One-stop global connectivity and easy connections to vacation destinations

Carry-on items

American Airlines allows each ticketed passenger a carry-on bag and personal item. Parents are allowed one carry-on diaper bag per child.

Breast pumps are considered an "assistive device" - therefore do not count as your personal item. You will be able to bring your pump tote, personal item and carry-on.

Strollers and car seats

Each ticketed customer is allowed 1 stroller. Only small, collapsible and light strollers (up to 20lbs) can be checked at the gate. Any stroller that weighs over 20lbs, is too large or is non-collapsible must be checked at the ticket counter.

Customers are allowed 1 stroller and 1 car seat per ticketed passenger. Both items may be checked at the ticket counter or one item can be checked at the gate and one at the counter. These items are checked at no charge, when traveling with a child or to adopt.

No ticket required vs ticket required

No ticket required

- Held by an adult (lap child): A parent or any person 16 years or older may hold the infant in their lap, the infant must be included in the reservation by calling American Airlines reservations. International taxes and percentage of adult fare may apply.

Ticket required

- Once a child has reached their second birthday, the child is required to have a purchased seat at an adult fare.
- In a reserved seat: If your infant will travel in his or her own seat, you must buy a ticket and bring a safety seat approved by the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA).

Nonstop to Atlanta and Detroit; One-stop global connectivity and easy connections to vacation destinations

Carry-on items

Children's baggage allowances are based in part by the fare paid for their travel. See the guidelines below.

- Unticketed Infant/Child - If children are traveling for free, they don't have a baggage allowance. So any baggage for the child counts as part of the adult's baggage allowance.
- Ticketed infant/Child – Children with tickets will be allowed one personal item and one carry on item.

A breast pump tote will count as your free personal item (so if you have a purse separate, you will have to combine these two or put your purse in your carry-on item.)

Strollers and car seats

Children's strollers and seat restraints are not counted as part of the standard baggage and therefore can easily be checked for free at the ticket counter or gate.

No ticket required vs ticket required

No ticket required

You may travel with one infant in your lap without purchasing a ticket if:

- the infant is less than two years old, and
- you are at least 18 years old or the infant's legal guardian, and
- your travel is within the U.S.

If traveling with a non-ticketed infant/baby, call Delta reservations after you book your ticket to add them to your reservation.

Ticket required

You'll need to purchase a ticket for your child when you:

- have a child that is age two or older
- have a child that turns age two during a trip — a reserved seat and ticket are required for the entire journey
- prefer the child to sit in a seat with an approved restraint
- have a second child, regardless of age and you already have a child who will be sitting in your lap
- will be traveling between countries, regardless of whether or not the child occupies a seat

Nonstop to Atlanta until June 2, 2017

Carry-on items

Southwest doesn't charge a fee for baby items or assistive devices such as breast pumps. Milk and/or formula (medically necessary so not part of the TSA's 3-1-1 rule) will be tested separately by TSA, and once it goes on the belt, the TSA will handle all of these items until customers are done with their screening.

Strollers and car seats

Customers traveling with infants are allowed to check one stroller per infant without charge (this is in addition to the free baggage allowance).

No ticket required vs ticket required

No ticket required

- One child over 14 days old and under two years of age, not occupying a seat, may be carried free of charge when traveling with an adult (12 years of age or older) and Southwest will check the CRS for use at their destination.
- Although a boarding pass is not required for the infant, you will need a Boarding Verification Document which can be obtained at the ticket counter.

Ticket required

- Any child who has reached his/her second birthday is required to occupy his/her own seat. Affordable infant fares are available that enable a customer to reserve a seat for an infant and use his/her FAA-approved car seat.
- If a customer chooses to purchase a seat so their infant may travel in his/her CRS, they will need to obtain a boarding pass for the infant. Online check-in is available if the infant traveling on an Infant Fare is age verified.
- A copy of the child's birth certificate is required to validate the age of all infants under two. A medical release for travel is required for any infant under 14 days old. Additionally, accompanied children ages two through 11 may purchase the applicable child fare for the flight.

Nonstop to Orlando, Ft. Lauderdale/Miami, Ft. Myers, Tampa, Las Vegas and Myrtle Beach. One-stop to vacation destinations like the Caribbean and Mexico.

Carry-on items

Breast pumps and baby formula are allowed to be carried onto an aircraft and don't count against your carry-on allowance. Be sure to notify a TSA officer when going through the security check-in.

One diaper bag is permitted with each child at no additional charge.

Strollers and car seats

One stroller and one car seat per child will be checked for no extra cost at the ticket counter. You may also check these items at the gate. Spirit will have them waiting for you in your arrival city when you get off the aircraft.

No ticket required vs ticket required

No ticket required

- From 7 days old until his/her second birthday (age 7 days to 23 months), a child is considered a lap child and does not need a paid seat; however, customers may opt to buy a seat for the infant if they prefer.
- Spirit reserves the right to request documented proof of age for any traveler 2 years old or younger. Please be prepared to provide documentation (birth certificate, passport, etc.).

Ticket required

- Customers can make a separate reservation for an infant; however, the infant must be securely placed in an FAA-approved child restraint system (car seat). Car seats may not be accommodated in any seat equipped with an inflatable seat belt. Additionally, car seats may not be secured in an exit seat or the row before or after the exit seats.
- Once a child has their second birthday (24 months and older), they are no longer considered a lap child and a seat must be purchased in order for them to travel. If a child has their second birthday between the outbound and return flight, a seat will need to be purchased for the return flight.

UNITED

Nonstop to Chicago and Newark (NYC); One-stop global connectivity and easy connections to vacation destinations.

Carry-on items

Customers may carry the following infant and child articles on board, in addition to the maximum carry-on baggage allowance:

- Diaper bag
- Breast pump

Strollers and car seats

United accepts one stroller and one car seat free of charge for each child, including children under the age of two traveling on an adult's lap.

If requested by the customer, United can check strollers at the departure gate. United is not liable for damage to strollers. Customers cannot purchase excess valuation for strollers.

United does not reserve space for government-approved child seats, unless a ticket has been purchased for that seat. If space is available after boarding is completed, customers may use adjacent unused seats to secure the government-approved child seat. If space is not available after boarding is completed, the item must be stowed in an approved storage space.

No ticket required vs ticket required

No Ticket Required

- Children under the age of two traveling within the United States, Puerto Rico and the U.S. Virgin Islands with a parent or with an adult 18 years or older can travel on the adult's lap free of charge.

- If you prefer the child to sit in a seat with an approved restraint

Transportation Security Administration

Child nutrition

Be sure to declare any medically necessary liquids (breast milk, formula, medications, etc.) at the checkpoint, because they may require additional screening.

Formula and breast milk in quantities greater than 3.4 ounces are allowed in carry-on baggage and do not need to fit within a quart-sized bag. You do not need to travel with your child to bring breast milk.

Ice packs, freezer packs, frozen gel packs and other accessories required to cool formula, breast milk and juice are allowed in carry-on. If these accessories are partially frozen or slushy, they are subject to the same screening as described above.

Snacks like yogurt, pudding and other drinks can be over 3.4 oz if they're for the child(ren). Filtered, water fill-up stations are located just beyond security.

Screening children's items

Strollers, umbrella-strollers, baby carriers, car and booster seats and backpacks must be screened by X-ray. All toys and blankets must also go through screening, but will be returned quickly.

Equipment that does not fit through the X-ray machine will undergo a visual/physical inspection by TSA officers.

Screening with child

Infants and small children may be carried through the metal detector. Should the alarm sound, additional screening is required.

Children able to walk through the metal detector without assistance may do so separately from their parent or guardian.

If the child is able to stand for 5 seconds they may be required to go through advanced imaging technology. Parents may not be screened by this technology when carrying an infant or child.

- Children 12 and under can leave their shoes, light jackets and headwear on during screening.
- Children will not be separated from their parent/guardian.
- Remove infants and children from their carriers and carry them in arms through the walk-through metal detector.
- Modified screening procedures are in place to reduce the likelihood of a pat-down.
- If You're TSA Pre✓™ Eligible, so are Your Children: If your child is 12 or younger, he or she can also use the TSA Pre✓™ expedited screening lane when traveling with you.
